A BIBLE FOR THE KING

London, Oct. 28.
The King has accepted a copy of the new Afrikaans Bible, 250,000 copies of which will be sold within the first year of issue in South Africa. The Earl and Countess of Athlone, Lord and Lady Clarendon, and Mr. C. T. de Water have also received presentation copies. The Rev. A. H. Wilkinson, secretary of the British and Foreign Bible Society, who returned recently from South Africa, reports that remarkable enthusiasm has been aroused by the book.

A DOWNING-STREET CORTÈGE
Sir John Simon unexpectedly made a processionary entry into Downing-street for the Cabinet meeting to-day.

He emerged from the south door of the Foreign Office and walked up the steps at the St. James's Park end of the street. Immediately in front of him walked two Whitehall messengers, carrying between them a large trunk.

The box was evidently heavy, and they walked slowly. Sir John Simon, in his characteristic attitude with bowed head, followed immediately behind them.

"Ah!" said a bystander, "the body of the Disarmament Conference."
"Yes," added another, "and the chief mourner following behind."

In large white letters on the trunk were the words "Hold not wanted."

SIR CHARLES HARRINGTON

The announcement in last night's "London Gazette" that General Sir Charles Harrington had been placed on half-pay as from October 12 has given rise to some misconception.

Sir Charles is only 61 years of age and was until a week ago G.O.C. at Aldershot. It was announced last May that he had been appointed to succeed Sir Alexander Godley, who now retires from the Active List, as Governor and Commander-in-Chief of Gibraltar.

The present rule is that the normal retiring age for Generals is 65, though this may, and often is, extended to 67 by the Army Council. Sir Charles therefore may expect at least four, and probably six more years of active service.

"TRANSITIONAL BENEFIT"

The explanation of the "Gazette" announcement is amusing.

Sir Charles's half-pay is a "transitional benefit," he will receive it for exactly eight days during which he is technically unemployed.

His appointment at Aldershot ended last Thursday, and his new duties do not start until the day after to-morrow.

LONDON AND HITLER

There was a disposition among certain sections of the general public to take a rather exaggerated view of the German defection from the Disarmament Conference and the League of Nations, but it was quickly realised that there was no reason for alarm. None the less, the turn of events came as a sharp disappointment, since hope had persisted that in spite of the difficulty of getting the nations to make the necessary sacrifices the Disarmament Conference would yield fruit. It is recognised that Germany's precipitate action isolates her and compromises the hopes of real reconciliation. Public opinion here has placed great store on the influence exercised by Britain without following closely the varying breezes of national sentiment and "know proper" at Geneva. The hope is uppermost that wise decisions will prevail in a situation which should be clarified within the next day or two.

GERMAN UNIVERSITY EXILES

A number of teachers and students, forced by political pressure to leave the German Universities where they were engaged in research work, have recently been enabled to continue their studies at some of the colleges of the University of London. It is in keeping with the best British tradition that these Jews whose origin has brought them a load of prejudice should be helped on their cultural way. At University College about a dozen have been given working facilities. The governors of the Birkbeck College have also decided to offer to others the research facilities of their laboratories. Three of the exiles are already at work at the Birkbeck. The same broad spirit of sympathy and helpfulness is being displayed at King's College and the London School of Economics, where a number of highly trained German research workers have been accommodated.

WOMAN MINISTER'S RESIGNATION

The Rev. Mrs. Collins, East London's first and only woman minister, has resigned her position at North Bow Congregational Church. She states that after ten years of strenuous work in a poor neighbourhood she finds the strain too great.

Miss Collins will remain at North Bow until the end of this year, when she will rest before taking any new appointment.

CHINA IN LONDON

Although there were not more than half a dozen Europeans at the Chinese students' "Republic Day Luncheon" at the Criterion, English was used not only for the speeches but for table talk among most of the 150 students present, and so pure and accentless was their English that even Mr. Shaw's professor of phonetics in "Pygmalion" might have had difficulty in saying off-hand whether the speakers were Easterners or Westerners. The educated Chinese, it was mentioned, from his childhood now pronounces English with comparative ease, much more easily than the pronounces French or German, for instance.

This annual reunion of Chinese students in London to commemorate the foundation of the Republic is the first to be held for two years. Last year, on the advice of the Chinese Government, it was abandoned because of the fighting in Manchuria, and the year before because of the great floods—so keenly do the Chinese feel the effects of national disasters, even though they are separated from them by thousands of miles. The Chinese Central Students' Union, as Sir E. Denison Ross remarked in his speech, has done much to enliven the leisure of the two hundred or so Chinese students in London—by far the majority of them are students of law, though when they go back to China they have to begin their studies all over again, with Chinese law, for even Chinese students who have not been introduced to one another, as he pointed out, will sit and face one another in silence for years, "just as if they were Englishmen."

THE OXFORD CHANCELLORSHIP

All the signs seem now to point to Lord Irwin being elected to succeed Viscount Grey as Chancellor of the University of Oxford.

I am told, however, that if the Archbishop of Canterbury, who was much talked of in this connection, could have been induced to offer himself, his election would have been assured.

There are good reasons why Dr. Lang, despite his intense love of Oxford, could not accept nomination. The controversy arises from time to time in University politics, and it might be embarrassing for the Primate to be involved.

Most important of all, there is probably no personage

WILD CHEERS FOR DE VALERA

At Convention of the Fianna Fail

Dublin, Nov. 9.

Including delegates from London, Glasgow, Paris and Spain, two thousand people are attending the eighth annual convention of the Fianna Fail of which Mr. Sean O'Kelly, vice-president of the Free State Government, was elected chairman.

An Indian Congress representative was also present and a large crowd frantically cheered De Valera on his arrival, and also other notables.

The chairman said the convention represented a great national republican movement, but because of the laws which they had not, hitherto any power to abrogate, they could not say it represented all Ireland, but please God that condition of affairs would not last much longer.

THE APPEAL COURT VACANCY

The imminent retirement of Lord Justice Lawrence has aroused much speculation in legal circles as to his probable successor in the Court of Appeal.

As Sir Ogden Lawrence came from the Chancery side of the High Court, it is most probable that his successor will be appointed from that division.

In that event, either Mr. Justice Chanson or Mr. Justice Matham appears to be indicated for the vacancy. Mr. Justice Matham is the elder brother of the late Lord Justice Lawrence.

Millions of Gallons maturing—
Older and better than ever

Never was your White Horse as good or as old as it is to-day. Years ago, exceptionally heavy stocks of the finest whiskies were laid down to anticipate sales which the quality would justify. These stocks are now fully matured. The result is that WHITE HORSE is now older and better than ever before, excellent as it was in 1932 and preceding years. This advance in quality and age will be maintained. White Horse is now the equivalent of a fine liqueur.

Notes From Paris

Lucien Lelong's new autumn and winter dresses show that the designing of dresses may be almost an exact science. He claims to make clothes independent of colour for their beauty; if all were entirely black, he declares, they would look just the same.

He uses dull soft woollens for morning dresses and coats and skirts with fur trimmings, buttons and bright blouses. The basque jacket may fit close or have some bring to the hip. Rusty grey, brown, Bordeaux red, and green, are prevailing colours. Velvet for the evening is rich and bright. Black and brown Ottoman silk and taffetas make dinner dresses and late afternoon costumes with fur. Capes are full and reach below the waistline; in front ribbons are crossed to the behind.

The evening dresses are long;
some have trains. They are slim from hips to knees, where they grow wide to the feet. The sleeve is short and the shoulder drapery is either drawn from the front to fall in long ends down the back, after being caught in at the waist, to the hem of the skirt, or drawn from the back to be carried down the front of the skirt in loops, or in a sash bow. Some long draperies take the form of sleeves looped to the hem of the skirt; others are looped from the hips. In soft crepes and satins they give almost a winged appearance. The backs of some dresses are slit and cut about. The fronts are high. Sleeves are tight fitting with fullness at the shoulders. Silver belts, glass clips, and decorative belts are worn on plain dresses.
Simple velvet dinner dresses may have fur on the shoulders. A short silver and cream lame coat and muff are carried with a brown velvet evening dress. Pale blue and olive green are put together in one dress.
A brilliant blue and silver lame make an evening dress with a silver belt. In little dinner dresses with long sleeves the sleeve is cut out as to leave the top of the arm bare.

There is the same fashion in fur trimmed evening wraps. A silver grey satin dinner dress is worn with a grey velvet cape trimmed with blue fox. A black velvet dinner dress has a silver chain looped from the shoulder to the waist and is worn with a black velvet and white ermine cape.

Lucile Paray uses black velvet with fox fur on the shoulders for afternoon dresses. She makes well-fitting coats and skirts with blouses of soft hairy woollens with fur-trimmed shoulders and broad belts.
The basques of the coats and blouses are flat and close-fitting. The skirts have a stitched seam to give them a piped effect. They are trimmed mostly with astrakan, and button down the front as dresses button down the side. Buttons are decorative. Blouses may be of satin or lame, and of light bright colours, with long or short sleeves. All Lucile Paray's trimmings are about the shoulders and neck. Some sleeves have the pinched point to give width at the shoulders; others have a pointed drape. Below the elbow sleeves are tight-fitting and untrimmed. There are simple black crepe satin afternoon frocks and black garnished lace dinner dresses.
A dinner dress of black taffetas has pink ruching running under black ruching about the shoulders and round the hem of the skirt.

Aigrettes are put on a black dinner dress as flowers might have been.
Paste clasps, clips and buckles give brightness to black-and-white dresses. Silver belts, silver threads, and varnished satin with gold designs point to an increasing liking for gleaming trimmings and materials.

FASHION ON THE LINKS

At the girls' golf championship Miss Phyllis Shand's waterproof trousers were the only unusual fashion amongst an army of players who looked chic and business-like in the severest of sports clothes.

Miss Aline de Gunzburg's outfit of grey skirt and white jumper, with a black belt which looked as if it had been glued over one ear, was the smartest. The Beeley sisters had the best fitting mackintosh suits. Miss Lorna's was in a rich shade of red.

The new black and dark-coloured winter frocks are enlivened by touches of bright colours—Indian reds, Persian blues and greens, and those other brilliant tones seen in the plumage of tropical birds.

Wide belts are fashionable. Many are embroidered in lame threads.
Others in bright beads.

Street coats are given beaded leather belts. An example was a beige coat with a wide dark brown belt decorated with little bows in pink beading.

Tight collarettes made of layers of grey-coloured exotic feathers are seen on black coats.

An evening coat had one of this description with a muff to match made of curled cock's feathers—a prickly effect like holly leaves massed together.

Enormous fur muffs are shown.
Also many separate fur-seal and fox necklets with down backs; fox fur-trimmed with big ribbon bows in front; velvet hats with "fish" or fox or wolf fur trimmings; and with walking suits, muffs and beaver gamble gloves, and gloves by one designer. The whole of the glove is of fur-back and front.

ABOUT YOUR JEWELS

Care is Important

IT is surprising how few women attend to their jewels as regularly or as carefully as they should. Yet jewellery of any kind, whether it is real or imitation, is only at its best when it is free from dust and grime.

Pearls, for instance, require restringing at least once every four months, for this is a practice which not only ensures their safety, but which also makes it possible for the accumulated dust to be removed from the holes.
Sometimes pearls become dull.
When this happens, the only reliable method of restoring them to their former lustre is by keeping them for several hours in powdered magnesia. After a time the powder may be shaken out and the pearls may then be polished with a soft chamois leather. If they are very dusty, it is a good plan to rinse the pearls in cold water afterwards, drying them well with a soft handkerchief.

Filligree silver and gold should be washed in lukewarm water to which a little ammonia has been added; and afterwards dried with a soft duster and polished with a leather. Plain gold, platinum, or silver jewellery should be brushed with a little whitening which has been slightly moistened with methylated spirit. This mixture will dry in a few minutes and if the whitening is then brushed off with a soft brush a brilliant polish will result.

Amber should be rubbed with powdered chalk which has been moistened with a little water.
After this has been removed, polish gently with a soft cloth, soaked in olive-oil.

Turquoises and opals must on no account come into contact with water since water will spoil their appearance entirely. Turquoises, especially, change colour very quickly, and are liable to become green.

Ivory must not be washed with soap, since it helps to discolour it. If it has become yellow, wipe it with a cloth that is saturated with peroxide of hydrogen and then place it in the sun to bleach.

Mother-of-pearl jewellery should be dusted with a soft cloth, mois-tened with olive-oil, and afterwards gently polished with a handkerchief. Coral necklaces should be washed in cold water and then polished with a dry cloth.

Any jewellery which contains clusters of stones—and as slender chains or rings—should never be polished or wiped on account of the frailty of the stones. These soon dry, however, if placed for a little while in the sun.

PRACTICAL HINTS

Elderdowns have a habit of slipping off the bed on to the floor.
Here is a good notion for keeping them in place on cold nights.

Sew two silk or satin ribbons—the colour of the quilt—on each corner. Tie in loose bows on the side of the spring.

This will not work, of course, with divans or box spring mattresses.

Another idea is to cover small clothes pegs the clip type—with matching material—or a pretty contrast.

Clip the quilt to the turnover of the top sheet and again to small pieces of blanket at the foot. It will not then either on to the floor.

If your nerves—and incidentally the walls of your house—suffer from slamming doors the following is a remedy kindly passed on to me the other day.

Make miniature bolster covers—about 6 in. long and 4 in. in diameter—of velvet, tullestry or any other material to tone in with the furnishing and colour scheme of the various rooms.

Stuff the bolsters with wool or old rags cut into shreds.

At each end of the bolster sew on a loop of ribbon or cord—3 in. in diameter.

The loops are slipped over the handles inside and outside—and when the door slams these shock absorbers prevent the penetrating bath.

If you want the door to be shut, just take off the "bolster"

from one side of the door and it hangs on the other and looks quite decorative.

Quite a good idea for an inexpensive gift.

Another good idea if your furniture stands on linoleum covered floors is to cut rings of felt from old hats and glue them to the legs of the table and chairs.

Then, if careless people drag the furniture along, instead of lifting it, the felt pads will prevent the linoleum from being scratched.

TYPICAL BRITISH GIRLS

There are some interesting revelations in the Exhibition of Modern Portraiture, at the Princes Galleries, which the Lord Mayor opened yesterday afternoon.

Thirty-nine pictures, grouped under the heading "Typical British Girls," showed conclusively that the "typical" is a much thing. One of these "typical" girls, young Italy, another girl, like young Italy, British, and yet is shown and features resembling

my poor husband has to do all the work."

should be frank, and tell their wives everything?"
"Yes, and I think wives should be generous, and believe it."

A BRITISH WOMAN'S TRIUMPHFirst To Get To Ghat, Secret
Sahara Capital

The first woman to have penetrated the Sahara as far as Ghat, the oasis capital of the Hoggar, was in London recently.

She is Madame Marie de Bonneuil, who, in an interview with a reporter, made the further claim to have established a Saharan record of motoring 10,000 kilometres in the Tripolitan desert, in addition to having flown—as a "passenger"—6000 kilometres in the Libyan desert.

A fashionably dressed Parisienne, Madame de Bonneuil is proud of the fact that although her home is now in Paris she is British-born and is the wife of a Briton whom she married in her native Mauritius.

Through Storm.

Sitting in the luxurious London home of Miss Rosita Forbes (Mrs.
Arthur McGrath), the well-known explorer, Madame de Bonneuil told how eagerly, returning from her first desert adventures, she had come to exchange notes with Miss Forbes, the first woman to have discovered, in 1920-21, Kufra, the then secret and sacred oasis in the middle of the Libyan desert.

"Since Rosita Forbes, disguised as a Bedouin sheikh, got into Kufra no civilian had been allowed to set foot there until I landed in it a few months ago from a plane piloted by the well-known Italian Air Force ace, Colonel Lordi," said Madame de Bonneuil.
"Only through the friendly kindness of Mussolini, the Duce, was I allowed to make the journey to Kufra."

"We had to go through hours of desperate battling in a Ghibli storm overt the desert before we reached the sacred oasis now in the occupation of the Italian troops."

Dressed as Officer.

"There I dressed as a Saharan officer so as not to disturb the Kufra population. During my stay I learned that Rosita Forbes known among them as 'Sitt Khadija,' had been raised by them to the position of a saint."

"I was from Kufra that I determined to try some pioneer work as a woman explorer. I made up my mind to be the first woman to get to Ghat. A young Dutchwo-man who made the attempt many years ago had been assassinated on the way, and more recently several men explorers had lost their lives trying to reach Ghat."

"Atlantide."

"I motored all through the Fezzan, the land of the Gara-mantas, the ancient African civilization. In the Hoggar, the mountainous country which is almost a kind of little Switzerland in the middle of the desert, I got to the legendary seat of 'Atlantide,' the mysterious woman about whom Pierre Benoit wrote his novel."

"Camping one day, near the mountain seat of 'Atlantide,' I heard to my horror the shrieks and screams of women. I found they came from a well into which I learned women were thrown when they were deemed to be mad. I tried to approach, but was pushed aside."

PARTY SWEETS

Chocolate Candy

Ingredients.—1 tea-spoon fresh walnut, 6 table-spoons castor su-ble-spoons cocoa, butter size of a milk—or Ambrosia directed 2 ta-and castor sugar into a small pan, and dissolve them very slowly over a gentle heat, stirring all the time. When the sugar is quite melted, boil slowly for 15 minutes, stirring constantly. There is so very little liquid in this candy that it is apt to burn unless it gets constant attention. Add a few drops of vanilla, and bring again to boiling-point. Pour the mixture into a shallow, buttered tin, and when nearly set, mark into half-inch squares with a knife. When quite set, knock the tin sharply on the table, and turn out the candy. Break into pieces, and wrap each piece in waxed paper. (Save the waxed paper from the flaps of envelopes for this purpose). Store till required, in an airtight tin.

Chocolate-Squares

Ingredients.—Butter, size of an egg, 2 table-spoons cocoa, 2 tablespoons cocoa milk powder, 3 level dessertspoons castor sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla essence, tiny pinch salt.

Method.—Any of the sweetened chocolate powders are suitable for this sweet, and any good brand of cocoa. Cocoa butter, which we used to get during the war, was ideal for making this sweet but will not do as a substitute for it cannot be got now. Margarine will not do as a substitute for butter. Sieve the cocoa and chocolate powder. Bring the butter to the boiling point in a small pan. Remove from the fire and add the sugar, milk in the cocoa, chocolate powder and tiny pinch salt, and beat the mixture thoroughly. Stir in vanilla. Turn into a shallow buttered tin, and when cold, cut into neat squares, or pour into buttered tops of baking powder tins, etc.

An Off Day

A firm advertised for a girl clerk, and the next morning hundreds of applicants arrived. So numerous were they that the chief told the office boy to admit no more.

Shortly after this an aggressive woman arrived, and pushing her way past the others, asked to see the chief. By this time the office boy had grown deaf or all protestations and had but one answer.

"Not to-day, madam," he said.
"But I'm his wife," said the woman.

"Not to-day, madam," was the inexorable reply.—Tit-Bits.

Generous

Sarah and her little brother Benny wistfully eyed two cakes on the kitchen table. Soon their mother came in and gave one to each of the children. Eagerly they began to nibble away. Suddenly Sarah stopped.

"Mother," she said, "you haven't yet tasted this delicious cake yourself. Take a piece of Benny's and see how good it is!"
—Unidentified.

Oof!

He: "I think absence make the heart grow fonder."

She: "I believe presents are more convincing."

THREE INTERESTING STYLES FOR NOVEMBER

AUTUMN ACCESSORIES

One of the most interesting things about watching the evolution of fashion is the question of line.

We know that this is always changing; but from the point of view of everybody who appreciates the best in current dress, and especially from the point of view of the woman who finds it more economical to be a trifle ahead of most people, it is valuable to know in which directions lines change gradually and where the change is sudden and strongly marked.

With dresses and coats, the alteration is often very gradual and sometimes almost imperceptible. With accessories such as hats, bags, fur pieces, and other neck and other neck and wrist finishes, it is often sudden.

A few months ago, for example, nearly every bag you saw in the shops was round. This was quite logical. The advantage of having a mirror in which you could see to powder more than your nose was immediately apparent as soon as "flapjacks" were put on the market. Circular bags, which held even as outside "flapjack" in comfort and more conveniently than any narrow pochette could hope to do, followed suit.

Long Handbags.

Powder cases, with reasonably-sized mirrors, are now made in squares and oblongs, as well as in circles. Cigarette cases are more often long than square. The newest handbags have, therefore,

again quite logically, gone in for length.

You can have them made to match a new hat in one of the autumn tweeds or other woollens. You can have them in more luxurious fabrics for the afternoon.

For very late afternoon and for the evening you will probably prefer a little less length. It is, after all, less necessary to allow space for papers and keys and all the sundries one is so apt to take out and add to during the day, when one is bound merely for the play or an evening party.

The pochette, in plain shirred, or pleated velvet or silk; in the ever satisfying (and by no means expensive) petit point; and brocade in iridescent straw; in some of the more interesting faconne materials, and occasionally in beadwork, are some of the varieties from which you may choose companions for new evening dresses.

It has always been the hardest thing in the sartorial world to find shoes which possessed low heels and elegance at the same time. Now you really can.

There is a pair in dark green leather, perfect for country occasions, and quite sufficiently charming in themselves to lead you towards green or greenish greys for your new tweeds.

The new black and dark-coloured winter frocks are enlivened by touches of bright colours—Indian reds, Persian blues and greens, and those other brilliant tones seen in the plumage of tropical birds.

Wide belts are fashionable. Many are embroidered in lame-threads. Others in bright beads.

Street coats are given beaded leather belts. An example was a beige coat with a wide dark brown belt decorated with little bows in pink beading.

Tight collarettes made of layers of gay-coloured exotic feathers are seen on black coats.

An evening coat had one of this description with a muff to match, made of curled cock's feathers—a prickly effect like holly leaves massed together.

Enormous fur muffs are shown. Also many separate furs—seal and fox necklets with cowl backs; fox furs tied with big ribbon bows in front; velvet hats with "tips" of fox or wolf fur.

With walking suits astrakhan and beaver gauntlet gloves are shown by one designer. The whole of the glove is of fur—back and front.

He also showed the new "sky fox" fur as a trimming to a grey suit. With it was worn a silver leather beret which had the appearance of being made from silver paper.

These notes come from Au fashion correspondent in Paris.

Seen this Week in

LANE, CRAWFORDS, LTD.

The cold weather has really come at last, but at the Ladies Salon they are quite prepared for it, and are showing delightful woollies for all occasions.

I saw many smart light-weight overcoats in all sorts of different materials. Rough serge in bright colours always looks nice. Smooth serge in fawn or herringbone is very slimming, while checks and fancy tweeds appeal to the sporting women. All coats have novel sleeves and large roll collars and (can you believe it?) they are BRITISH MADE. At a time when foreign goods are being sold in every shop Lane, Crawford, Ltd. are standing by the slogan...BUY BRITISH.

Many warm and pretty long-sleeved dresses can be seen at the Ladies Salon, in beech-nut-brown, russet, scarlet, and very autumn tint.

Another useful accessory is a fur-scarf, just the thing to wear with a coat and skirt, and I saw a selection starting at as low as 50c.

When buying a dress don't forget to glance at the fancy-counter where you will see innumerable dainty buckles, clasps and ornaments of chromium, diamond and enamel, suitable for hats, dresses, or evening wear. Many have bracelets to match.

MODES ELEGANTES.

There are plenty of pretty hats on view at Seventeen "Ice House" Street, this week, and many dresses in the very latest styles. If the Shanghai tailor had room for a fashion parade in his small shop it would be found that he had frocks stylish enough to vie with anyone. Moreover they are very inexpensive and new ones are constantly arriving.

WHITEAWAY LAIDLAYS

I am asked to say that there are some astounding values to be got in white fleecy-wool and pure-wool Whitney blankets all this month. There also some artistic coloured blankets in several lovely shades, at moderate prices. Ask to see them. Beautiful eiderdowns are also displayed in many rich and glossy silks of two colours, such as jade and apple-green; crimson and white-colour; Russian and pale-blue, etc. as well as a few charming plain-colour eiderdowns in russet, sage and other shades. Those in search of wedding presents would do well to glance at the enchanting iridescent cocktail and sundae-glasses, they are quite too lovely and can be got in sets.

THE FELIX-HAT SHOP

The Autumn Sale will continue for a few days longer at the Felix Hat Shop and there are many bargains to be found there, both for morning and afternoon wear.

Knitted suits with pretty blouses to contrast come in three-piece-sets. Herringbone-crepe makes a charming and novel two-piece ensemble. Cloth dresses which have a velvet top are most flattering for the complexion. The well known NATTIKNIT SUITS are very smart and pretty and all are reduced for the Sale.

As for hats, caps, and feathered trams, they are legion and all so up-to-date.

GORDONS, LTD.

Some new and charming shoes have just arrived at Gordons and are so moderate in price that I must describe them.

Dainty court-shoes in punched black suede are delightful for indoor wear and are only 25/- a pair. For street-wear it would be hard to find anything nicer than the lace-shoes of black velvet-suede with neat little silk ties at 28/50 the pair. Suede and kid make a pleasing mixture and are attractive in either nut-brown or in dark navy. These shoes are 21/50.

DOLLY VARDENS HAT SHOP

I saw a lot of warm and pretty Cardigans at Dolly Vardens' this week. Patterned Cardigans are the thing, this season, and can be found in many soft shades to tone with tweed or serge skirts. White Cardigans with coloured borders are very nice for slipping on over a white tennis frock. Parisians enthuse over the touch of Tartan with any dark dress. A little Tartan cap looks immensely smart with navy, brown or black, and there are some effective little Tartan Tams at Dolly Vardens.

MISS NAYLOR IMPORTER OF DRESSES

Fresh dresses keep on arriving at Miss Naylor's Salon, so there is always something new to see, some novel style of sleeve or collar, some vivid jersey-suit or three-piece-set. Miss Naylor also has one or two exceptionally smart black afternoon frocks with the touch of diamonds in buckle or button, which is a smart for special occasions. Black is to be much worn this winter and with a touch of shell pink, white or turquoise it suits almost every complexion.

SIR J. SIMON'S

SPEECH

Able Review Of

Situation

London, Nov. 7.

Sir John Simon opening the disarmament debate, described the situation as undoubtedly serious, but said there was no justification for the deplorable exaggerated and excited language used about it by some people.

As for the position and action of the British Government, he maintained their whole devotion and effort in the cause of disarmament had been consistent and sincere.

Having remarked that there was nothing in the proceedings of the Disarmament Bureau on October

14 which could justify the shock tactics Germany had then adopted, the Foreign Secretary said the conference had been in danger of losing its way when last March it was given a new and definite direction by the production of the British draft convention, the contents of which had been selected to suggest the probable greatest measure of attainable general consent.

Numerical Limits

The plan presented a picture of complete settlement. It suggested actual numerical limits for the principle

European powers in such things as aeroplane and effective. It was adopted by the conference as a basis for discussion, and it was accepted in principle by both France and Germany.

But while the conference adopted a number of general proposals, these did not lead to progress on the numbers.

By the end of June it was impossible, usefully, to enter on the second reading of the draft and it was decided to adjourn to allow conversations between the various interested

Governments.

Germany's Mind

Coming to the question of how this affected Germany, Sir John warmly agreed it was necessary to try and see the inside mind of Germany, and to understand why the German people had exhibited this vehement resentment.

Long delays must have made Germany increasingly impatient. While it was quite untrue to say that Germany's disarmament under the peace treaties was conditional upon the prompt achievement of general disarmament by the others, it was clear on the face of the treaty, and in M.

Clemenceau's letter, that Germany's disarmament was contemplated as the first step towards general disarmament.

Britain sets Example

Britain, declared Sir John, had set an example and led the way in reducing her own armaments to the lowest point by unilateral action. No doubt, it was difficult for a great people, with proud traditions in the past, who sincerely felt that the remedy for their grievances was overdue, to be patient, but it would be a gross injustice to Britain to forget all she had done to promote good relations in Europe after the war, by obliterating the distinctions between victor and vanquished.

The most material contribution to restoring confidence in Europe, said

Sir John, would be an international agreement on disarmament, to which,

of course, Germany should be a party.

The central political issue was how to reconcile Germany's demands for equality with France's desire for

Special Role

Sir John continued, "I believe we have a very special role to play, because it was Britain who brought the parties together. We have used, and we are going on using every effort, whether Germany is at Geneva or not, to stand. We shall not get out of our difficulties by trying isolation, when the advantages of isolation have disappeared. We shall not increase our influence for peace by declaring that it does not matter to us what our neighbours in Europe do or suffer.

"We have immense moral authority to assert. Great Britain has disarmed and has a right to speak and we will use that authority in the only way we are able to use it, by making no special, or select alliances with or against any power, but by working for friendship and peace with all."

Locarno Treaty

The Foreign Secretary referred to the Locarno Treaty, and having outlined its provisions, he pointed out that Italy was in the same position regard to it as Britain, that the Treaty could not be terminated by unilateral action, and that it remained one of the principles stabilising influence in Europe. "The question, in his continued, "whether the obligations of this country would be needed, if Germany, two years hence, carried out the intention of which she has given notice to leave the League of Nations.

"Germany has an opportunity of

He is co-featured in it with Frederic March, and though at the time his physicians advised against work, Grant refused to give up the role, which he considered the finest to which he had been as-bomb exploded prematurely, send-this time with abrasions and bruise-studio.Shortly after last scenes of "The

CHINESE VARIETY ENTERTAINMENT

Enjoyable Evening

Entertainment was held at the

China's most famous stage stars Mr. and Mrs. Sit Kok Sin, to-and musician, Mr. Lui Man Shing, took part. All the items were excellently rendered, and were much appreciated by a large audi-items, there were also Chinese sword and boxing displays.The Chinese Company of the appeared in what is probably the best Chinese talking picture of

Henry VIII. Success

New York, October 18.
Americans have just been awakened to the fact that England has a wealth of historical material for films with the authentic backgrounds of the ancient palaces and castles where that very history was made for which there is an eager market and a potentially great and enthusiastic audience in the United States.This awakening has been brought about by the British film, "The Private Life of Henry the Eighth," which shows all the signs of being destined to be a huge success here.
Its American premiere presentation was made yesterday. The critics' opinions, which appeared to-day were a series of eulogies of the film, and especially of Charles Laughton's acting in the role of King Henry.The view so widely and for so long held, that "the English just can't make films" has received a severe setback. This morning's New York "Herald Tribune" calls the film
"the finest of English motion pictures—a distinguished example of the cinema's ability to recreate an epoch." Here are other extracts from to-day's reviews:"A lusty, gusty piece, brimful of vigorous, headlong action.
Hollywood is challenged. No praise is too great for Laughton!" —"New York American."Lavishly mounted, with beautiful and authentic-looking interior and exterior sets.—"Daily News.""A really brilliant, if suggestive, film which Americans generally will enjoy unreservedly."
—"New York Times."And lastly, the New York "Daily Mirror": "This English film is a most exhilarating entertainment, and compares favourably with Hollywood's best. Laughton's performance is probably the most delightful ever recorded by the camera."LAUGHTON MAY BE PAID $30,000.
"The Private Life of Henry VIII." has been such a success in Boston and Paris—where it has taken more money in its first two weeks than did "The Kid From Spain"—that its prospects in Britain are regarded as already assured. It is to follow "That's a Good Girl" at the Leicester-square Theatre.Mr. Charles Laughton acted in the picture for a sum down and a percentage of the ultimate takings.
Naturally it is too early to estimate the amount, but it may be as high as $25,000 or $30,000. If so, it will be the largest sum ever paid to an actor in this country for a single picture.

PLANS FOR CENTRAL BRITISH SCHOOL

Searching Questions At Board Of Education Meeting

SIX HUNDRED PUPILS: SIX YEAR COURSE

The 90th meeting of the Board of Education was held on Wednesday, November 8, at 3 o'clock. A number of most interesting questions were asked and fully answered with regard to plans for the new Central British School.

Eventually it is to take 600 pupils over a six year course. Full provisions for playing fields is also to be made.

Members present were:—Director of Education, Mr. N. L. Smith, Chairman, Senior Inspector of English Schools, Mr. A. R. Sutherland, Senior Inspector of Vernacular Schools, Mr. Y. P. Law, M.A., B.A., Mr. A. el Arculli, Rev. Fr. G. Byrne, S.J., Ph.D., Mr. H. B. L. Dowling, O.B.E., Rev. F. Short, Very Rev. A. Swann, D.S.O., M.A., Hon. Mr. S. W. Tso, O.B.E., LL.D., Mr. H. K. Woo, Mr. B. Wylie.

The following were laid on the table:—

- (a) The Report of the Director of Education for the year 1932.
- (b) The Site Plan for the new Central British School.
- (c) The Report of the Medical Officer of Schools for July and August.
- (d) A Chinese prospectus on the subject of a newly invented phonetic script for Cantonese.

Mr. B. Wylie asked the following questions to which the answers are appended:—

Q.—How many pupils have entered the Central British School each year for the last ten years, and how many pupils have entered the Central British School each year for the last ten years?

A.—The figures for these two questions are identical as there is no record of any applicants having been refused admission in the same year, although in some cases it was necessary to wait some months until a vacancy occurred.

Q.—How many pupils are anticipated as entrants annually for which the proposed school will be constructed in the first instance?

A.—About 100.

Q.—How many pupils are anticipated as entrants annually, for which the proposed scheme will be ultimately extended as a completed scheme?

A.—About 180.

Q.—What is the total number of pupils for which it is proposed to construct the school in the first instance?

A.—300.

Q.—What is the ultimate number of pupils for which the school is planned as a completed scheme?

A.—600.

Q.—What is the length of the full secondary course contemplated in the new school?

A.—Six years.

Q.—What approximately is the area which the school buildings, quarters, covered ways, access roads and paths will occupy, (a) in the first instance; (b) in the completed scheme?

A.—(a) 1.4 acres; (b) 1.8 acres.

Q.—What is the acreage of usable playing fields available after deducting 8b above, from the present site?

A.—About 5.8 acres.

Q.—What area of land is available near the proposed site which may be made available for additional playing fields?

A.—A large area immediately to the West of the Schools could probably be made available for additional playing fields if necessary. It is reserved for this purpose in accordance with the recommendations of the Playing Fields Committee.

Q.—Will the Chairman cause a plan to be prepared for the information of this Board showing in outline only the area of the site and position of the proposed buildings, together with the position and extent of the additional land, which may be made available, if this is proved to be required for the completed scheme?

A.—The plan in question has already been circulated to the Board: total area about 9 acres.

Q.—Has the proposed scheme, together with site plan been submitted to the Board of Education in London for their advice?

A.—The answer is in the negative.

Q.—If the answer is in the negative, is it proposed to so submit the scheme?

A.—This has not been proposed.

Q.—Has the following publication been consulted in preparing the scheme:—"Board of Education, Educational Pamphlets No. 88, Suggestions for the planning of New Buildings for Secondary Schools 1931 Pages 1 to 90."

A.—The Pamphlet in question has been studied. It does little more than consolidate information about School planning which has appeared in Architectural Journals. The Architectural Staff is fully informed of recent developments in this branch of building.

Q.—Has the scheme been prepared on the lines suggested in the publication quoted in question No. 14 with respect to the area for each pupil in Classrooms, i.e. on a 18 sq. feet per pupil basis?

A.—The Class Rooms are based on 18 square feet per pupil and have adequate cross ventilation.

The main suggestions contained in the Pamphlet are embodied in the plan except that separate laboratories for Physics and Chemistry are provided; and one lecture room in addition.

Q.—If the answer to question 15 is in the negative, what increased area per pupil has been allowed for in the proposed scheme due to the difference in climate?

A.—This does not arise.

WOMAN CHARGED WITH RESISTING ARREST

The recent disturbance in Upper Lascar Row when an Indian Constable, B331, had to resort to firing a shot, to curb an unruly crowd had its sequel at Central Magistracy yesterday when a married woman, Lai Nui, 50, was charged before Mr. Hallour with resisting arrest and with damaging Government property. It will be recalled that the constable was threatened by a hostile crowd of about 400 when he attempted to arrest a woman (the defendant) who was suspected of smuggling alcohol.

Mr. L. H. C. Gathrop, A.S.P., appeared for the prosecution and the defendant was represented by Mr. P. T. K. Kemble of Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist.

Outlining the case for the prosecution, Mr. Gathrop said that the defendant was charged with obstructing the police constable in the execution of his duties by very violently resisting arrest and also with causing damage to Government property—the constable's police whistle.

"The defendant's action," said Mr. Gathrop, was aggravated by the fact that she very nearly caused a riot. The constable was surrounded by a hostile crowd of from 200 to 400 persons, and was forced to fire a shot from his revolver, which unfortunately hit a man in the right ankle.

"The constable will say that on the morning of the 5th (Sunday) at about 10 a.m. he saw the defendant and two children carrying three tins in their hands. As soon as they saw the constable they dropped the tins, about-turned, and ran. The constable picked up the three tins and followed them. He succeeded in getting hold of the defendant in Upper Lascar Row. The woman struggled violently and a hostile crowd soon gathered. The constable had to do his best to defend himself from the mob. During the struggle the defendant made a grab at his revolver. He stopped her, and to prevent her from eventually succeeding he pulled it out of the holster. In the struggle one shot was fired, which the constable said was accidental. The shot hit a man named Lum Lin who, according to his own story, was merely passing by at the time. It seems rather extraordinary that he was passing by as there was a crowd of about 400 persons.

"There is an independent witness, a Mr. Gutteries who would say that at that time he was purchasing tins in a nearby shop when he heard a police whistle being blown. Just as he was getting out of the shop he heard a shot fired. He saw a crowd of about 400 persons, and realising the seriousness of the situation he immediately reported the matter to the Central Police Station, and an emergency unit was despatched.

Apart from this witness, there would also be the evidence of four shop foks. My submission will be that even if the woman were wrongly arrested and that she had no connection whatsoever with the tins, she should not have struggled. The constable acted rightly in arresting her on suspicion and if she had gone to the police station quietly, enquiries would have been made to find out whether there was any truth in it or not.

"I have just received a report from the Government Analyst which states that two of the three tins originally contained alcohol. My submission would be that these three tins contained wine on which duty had not been paid, and the defendant, on seeing the constable, immediately dropped them and ran away, after having attempted to pour the contents out."

After hearing evidence in support of Mr. Gathrop's outline, his Worship convicted the defendant on the second charge and dismissed the first.

His Worship registered a conviction without any fine being imposed.

pared on the lines suggested in the publication quoted in question No. 14 with respect to the area for each pupil in Classrooms, i.e. on a 18 sq. feet per pupil basis.

Cathedral Service of Commemoration & Hope

(TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HONG KONG DAILY PRESS.")

Sir,—May I be allowed to draw the attention of your readers to the Special Service of Commemoration and Hope which will be held in St. John's Cathedral at 9.30 a.m. on Remembrance Day, November 11th, 1933.

The tension in international affairs at the present time should, I think, drive all Christian people to seek the highest Guidance for the leaders and people of all nations.

It is hoped that a large number of those who long for the more sure establishment of harmony and co-operation in international affairs will unite at the Cathedral Service in genuine prayer and self-dedication in the cause of peace.—Your etc.

ALFRED SWANN,
Dean, St. John's Cathedral.

BANDMASTER J. L. JECKS, A.R.C.M.

Retiring Shortly From The Army

With the retirement from active service of Bandmaster Joseph, L. Jecks, A.R.C.M., the members of the South Wales Borderers are losing a comrade, soldier and musician for whom it will be hard to find an equal.

Bandmaster Jecks joined the Army on January 10, 1898 and became a member of the band of the Royal Welsh Fusiliers. On December 1, 1908, he was promoted to bandmaster and immediately transferred to the Royal Irish Regiment. He became leader of the band of the South Wales Borderers in July, 1932 and has been with that regiment ever since.

Bandmaster Jecks' Service record is known in many places, his duties having taken him to many outposts of the British Empire. In 1908 and up to the beginning of the Great War in 1914 he was stationed in India, then he went overseas. From 1920 to 1922 he saw service in Germany and was sent to Egypt in 1922, where he remained until coming to this Colony in 1930. Bandmaster Jecks is not only a soldier but a talented composer, his chief interest being the creation and special arrangement of martial airs of which he has written several. He will leave for England very shortly, taking with him his wife and family, but prior to his departure, and as mark of the high esteem in which he is held, two farewell dinners will be held in his honour. The first will be given by the members of the Sergeant's Mess of the Borderers on Saturday, November 11 while the second has been arranged by the "Boys of His Band" and will take place in the St. Francis Hotel next Tuesday, 13th, at 7.30 p.m. and will be presided at by Mr. N. G. Harnden, who will preside as toast master and elaborate preparations have been made by the committee to make this dinner a success.

"Time changes many things but friendship remains the same," and though Mr. Jeck will soon be severing all active connections with the regiment he will long remain in the hearts of his comrades, a good soldier, a talented conductor, and a true friend.

DONALD LEACH GIVES BRIDE AWAY

It was really an "interport" event for Mr. Donald Leach, the Shanghai skipper, gave the bride away, while two other members of the team, Messrs. J. C. Jenkins and A. C. Sinclair were bestman and usher respectively. The matter of honour was Mrs. P. J. Easter.

WHO IS NADIR SHAH'S ASSASSIN?

EX-KING AMANULLAH DISPELS RUMOURS

"I Take No Part In Any Agitation"

London, Nov. 9. The Afghan Minister to London states that the King of Afghanistan, Nadir Shah, was murdered this morning. His son will be proclaimed King to-night.

No further details have been received regarding Afghanistan in a telegram to the Legation which mentions that the King was murdered by a "traitor" and that the country was quiet.

The Afghan Minister left Croydon by air this morning. It is understood en route to Afghanistan.

New Delhi, Nov. 9. Mystery still envelops the circumstances surrounding the assassination of Nadir Shah, even the Foreign Department being still without any news, though in replying to Reuter messages received from Bombay civilians and officials alike, they express the fear that the outrage emanates from a feud between Nadir Shah's supporters and those factions in Afghanistan who are intriguing a return of ex-King Amanullah.

The feud has already caused the murder, in Berlin, of Nadir's brother and a series of political crimes in Kabul last year. It is generally rumoured that Amanullah is intending to stage a personal attempt to return to Afghanistan where his stock is still high in certain districts and his precocious reforming zeal has apparently been forgotten.

The Acting Foreign Secretary, the ex-Counselor to the British Legation in Kabul when interviewed by Reuter, said the authorities for some time were fearing that such an outrage might happen and that it was impossible to predict where events may lead to. He added that it was significant that the assassination occurred during the absence from the capital of both the Premier and Foreign Minister. The former is a strong and honest half-brother of Nadir Shah and may be relied to remain loyal to Nadir's son who is a promising youth of twenty-one and a real "chip off the old block."

BRITISH POLICY IN CHINA

Discussion in House of Lords

London, Nov. 8. Lord Lugard, former Governor of Hong Kong, whose keen interest in the University is well-known, suggested a further contribution to its funds from the Boxer Indemnity during the debate on China in the House of Lords to-night.

Lord Lugard urged every effort to cement strong friendly relations, and Lord Addington stressed the growing feeling that the British Legation should be moved from Peking either to Nanking or to Shanghai.

He also expressed regret at the reduction of British forces in Shanghai.

Earl Stanhope informed Lord Lugard that this was impossible.

Lord Melchett supported Lord Peel and referred to the recent journey of the head of the Imperial Chemicals, Sir Harry MacGowan, to China.

He said he wished that the example would be followed by other leading industrialists.

Earl Stanhope, replying for the Government, mentioned that Dr. Sun Yat Sen once invited him to participate in one of China's revolutions.

As regards Chinese trade, he welcomed the recent visit of Sir Harry MacGowan to China. The Government's policy, he said, was one sincere friendliness to China. Our aim was to maintain cordial relations with the constituted government.

Lord Stanhope said that Britain had tried to meet China's national aspiration in the fullest measure and had recognised the strong national sentiment throughout the country.

As regards Lord Peel's suggestion of a gendarmerie, therefore, the government thought that the first move should come from China. If such a suggestion was made, the Government would do their best to see what assistance could be given.

London, Nov. 9. It is now learnt that the Afghanistan Minister is halting in Paris for 2 or 3 days to consult the Afghan Minister in Paris who is a brother of Nadir Shah regarding the situation.—Reuter.

AMANULLAH WON'T RETURN

London, Nov. 9. H.M. the King has sent a message of condolence to the new Afghan ruler.

Newspaper reports from Rome state that Amanullah declared, "I take no part in any agitation, seeing that the people of my country are not yet sufficiently educated to accept reforms. I have no desire to return to the throne."

In Rome the general opinion is that the Amanullah will not return to Afghanistan unless it is the general wish of the Afghans. He is happy here and his younger children scarcely remember Kabul while his elder son is practising as a lawyer in Rome.—Reuter.

New Delhi, Nov. 9. A British Legation despatch from Kabul confirms Nadir Shah's assassination but does not add any information except that the assassin is a student, probably another from the batch of students who were repatriated from Germany, similar to the assassin of the British Legation official in Kabul in September.

It is feared that tribesmen may attempt to loot Kabul which will mean that tribesmen on the British side of the Frontier will rush in to participate, but hope is placed in the fact that the Afghan army is at present a discipline one, well paid and fed, and will stand behind the new King.

Meanwhile, according to a telegram received from the Bombay Consulate, the whole nation is reported to be mourning for the King and unanimously declaring allegiance to his son.—Reuter.

London, Nov. 9. Reuter learns that the murderer of Nadir Khan is a student and not a courtier friend has been suggested in some quarters.—Reuter.

Legation Question. The question of the removal of the Legation had been periodically considered, but the governments had not, up to the present, considered the change to be necessary or desirable.

It was doubtful whether any real increase in efficiency would result.

The question was also complicated by important considerations of health and expense.

The Government spokesman also pointed out that the Chinese Government had once or twice transferred their capital and the permanent removal of the British Legation to Nanking would entail some risk of being made invalid.

He emphasised that Peking was greatly superior to Nanking or Shanghai from a health point of view.

The alternative of Shanghai was also objectionable because it had its own special problems, which might absorb the Minister's energy.

Hong Kong University Issue. He also showed that the Government had no power to devote any further money from the Boxer Fund to the Hong Kong University, as Lord Lugard had proposed.

Continuing, he asserted that the British Government had done more than any other power to demonstrate their friendliness and their sympathy with the reasonable aspirations of the Chinese people. The problem of further progress was one only the Chinese could solve. It was difficult to see what Britain could do which would not involve interference in Chinese affairs.—Reuter.

INDO-CHINA JOINS TIN SCHEME

London, Nov. 8. Indo-China has signed an agreement officially to join the International Tin Restriction Scheme on a flat rate from January 1, 1934.

The announcement is made by the Amsterdam correspondent of the Financial Times.—Reuter.

We insist upon "educating" too many people, and heaven knows what for.—Mr. T. S. Eliot.

NEW MAYOR OF NEW YORK

Sinecures, Graft And Wastefulness To Go

New York, November 8. The final figures of the Mayoral election in New York showed that over two million voters went to the poll despite the intimidation campaign.

La Guardia had a majority over 250,000 the figures being: La Guardia 558,500 McKee 604,000 O'Brien 583,000

Mr. La Guardia followed up his triumph over Tammany Hall, the first disturbance of its rule of New York for many years, with a promise to give the people a civic administration free from graft, from sinecures and from wastefulness.

The Democrats also failed in another of their cherished objects, namely, control of the New York State Assembly, in which they lost ten seats of New York City's representation.

Mr. Bernard Deutch, the well-known Jewish leader, and a follower of Mr. La Guardia, was elected President of the City Board of Aldermen, while the remarkable revolt against Tammany also resulted in a majority for La Guardia's borough and judicial candidates.

All of them were elected with the exception of Mr. Pecora, the attorney who has charge of the Senate Banking Investigation, who was third in a three-cornered fight for the post of District Attorney for New York City.

Retiring Mayor. Mr. O'Brien, the retiring Mayor, proved a good loser. He emphasised that it had been a clean fight and that Tammany Hall had taken its first defeat good-naturedly despite the fact that it stands to lose thousands of municipal jobs.

"The Tammany Tiger, like all cats has many lives. Tammany will continue all the same," declared a prominent Tammany official to-day.—Reuter.

DEMANDS FOR STERLING

New York, November 9. The Journal of Commerce states that the banks have been overwhelmed by demands for sterling from corporations and individuals, and it is reported that as a result of persistent rumours, France would abandon the Gold standard within a fortnight and President Roosevelt would authorise a small scale inflation by the issue of "Green Backs" in connection with treasury financing on December 12.

In the meantime, General Johnson has velvety hinted even at a capital levy under the N.I.R.A. when addressing Omaha farmers.

There is authority to do everything, said Johnson, and if none of the indirect methods work, there is authority to tax the whole public to make up the terrible disparity between farm and industrial prices. Even more important still is that there is authority to lift and alleviate your debt burden and save your farms from fore closure. If one method does not work, the President will try another, but do it we will.—Reuter.

CONTROL OF LIQUOR IN U.S.A.

Washington, Nov. 8. The Farm Administration has created a beverage section for the control of the beer and liquor industries through marketing agreements and possibly the social aspects of distribution.

The control of the liquor problem by this special organisation will hold good until Congress has enacted suitable legislation.—Reuter.

DANKO SENT TO PRISON

Sequel To Stabbing Affair

Shanghai, Nov. 9. Chief Petty Officer Danko pleaded guilty to stabbing his wife and was sentenced to two years imprisonment. His wife has recovered from her injury.—Reuter.

[It will be recalled that Chief Petty Officer George Danko of the United States Navy was held in custody in Shanghai on September 6, following the stabbing of his wife the previous day.]

Danko deserted from his destroyer at Taingtao and arrived by train in Shanghai on the morning of Sept. 5.

He went to the house where his 26-year old Russian wife was alleged to have been staying with a Russian, and after a fierce altercation, Danko is alleged to have stabbed her in the abdomen with a knife.

Later he rushed his wife to hospital, where he was arrested by the police.

The woman was in a very serious condition and was not expected to recover.

DISARMAMENT PROBLEM

Hailsham Elucidates Germany's Position

London, Nov. 8. The House of Lords to-night debated disarmament, the line of argument following closely that in the House of Commons.

Lord Hailsham, replying to the debate, pointed out that Baron von Neurath's reply to a question as to what Germany meant by "sample" armaments, did not refer to samples, but proposed that Germany should commence to rear immediately and attain equality on the "the kind of scale we are ultimately to receive as soon as a Convention is signed."

The crux of the problem, said Lord Hailsham, was to overcome Germany's resentment at her inferiority and at the same time to meet France's claim to reasonable security.

Until then, there would be no real progress.

Britain was now conferring actively with the Powers having the largest armaments, which would have to be regulated or destroyed under the Convention.

Britain did not rule out any kind of disarmament which would meet with general acceptance.—Reuter.

DISARMAMENT CONSULTATIONS

Mr. Cadogan Will Be Britain's Delegate

London, Nov. 8. As neither the French nor the Italian Governments will be represented by Ministers at the Disarmament Bureau to-morrow, the British Government delegate will be Mr. Cadogan of the Foreign Office.

Sir John Simon and Captain Anthony Eden will remain in London for the next few days for the necessary consultation, but it is hoped that one of them will leave for Geneva some time next week.—British Wireless.

ADMIRAL DREYER'S SON ENGAGED

To Daughter of Sir Henry Chilton

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, Oct. 25. The engagement is announced between Lt. Desmond Dreyer, R.N., H.M.S. Durban, second son of Admiral Sir Frederick Dreyer, Commander-in-Chief, China, and Lady Dreyer, and Miss Elizabeth Chilton, elder daughter of Sir Henry Chilton, his Majesty's Ambassador to the Argentine Republic, and Lady Chilton.

UNEMPLOYMENT IN BRITAIN

Insurance Shows Increase

London, Nov. 8. During the current financial year, the unemployment fund owing to the improved conditions of employment, has accumulated a surplus on insurance account of about £5,250,000.

As this appears to be more than sufficient to provide against winter contingencies, the Minister of Labour has decided to apply half of it towards repayment of borrowings by the Fund which total £150,000,000. Repayment is being made as various parts of the debt fall due.—British Wireless.

London, Nov. 8. A Government bill to amend the Unemployment Insurance Acts, and to make further provision for the training and assistance of unemployed who are capable of, and available for, work was introduced in the House of Commons.

The Bill will not be proceeded with this session which ends on November 17, when House will be prorogued.

The Bill will be reintroduced in new session which the King will open on November 24.—British Wireless.

CONSERVATIVES RETAIN SEAT

At Skipton By-Election

London, Nov. 8. The result of the Skipton by-election, caused by the death of Mr. E. R. Bird, was declared to-night as follows:

|--------------------|--------|
| G. Richards (Con.) | 18,136 |
| J. Davies (Labour) | 14,157 |
| R. Denby (Lib.) | 9,219 |
| J. Rushon (Con.) | 704 |

The Communist candidate forfeits his deposit.

Mr. Richards' majority of roughly 4,000 compares with a victory by 14,950 votes for the late Mr. Bird in the 1931 General Election, in a straight fight with Mr. Davies.

The Labour vote is up by 1,103 and the Conservative down by nearly 10,000, this being largely accounted for by the fact that many Liberals voted for the National Conservatives at Skipton in 1931.—British Wireless.

LANCASHIRE AND JAPAN

London, Nov. 8. A private conference has been held between Mr. Walter Runciman and representatives of the Textile Industries who discussed the question of Japanese competition.

SAN PEH STEAM NAVIGATION CO.

Petition Approved

Nanking, Oct. 28. In a communication to the San Peh Steam Navigation Company, the Ministry of Communications approves the petition of the Company for the operation of a through transportation service in conjunction with the Peking-Hankow and Hunan-Hupeh Railway Administrations.

It will be recalled that as a result of the recent Through Transportation Conference held under the auspices of the Ministry of Railways, the Government granted the right of through transportation to the China Merchants Steam Navigation Company in connection with the Shanghai-Nanking, Shanghai-Hangchow-Ningpo, Tientsin-Pukow, Lung-Hat, Kiaochow-Tsinan, Peking-Liaoning, and Peking-Suiyuan Railways.

Claiming that the traffic operations of the San Peh S. N. Co. are not less than that of the China Merchants S. N. Co., Mr. Yu Ya-ching, General Manager of the San Peh S. N. Co., petitioned the Ministry of Communications for the right to operate a through service in conjunction with the rest of the National Railways.

MORE TROUBLE IN CUBA

President Declares State of War

Havana, Nov. 8. The expected upheaval in Cuba has come. President Grau San Martin has declared a state of war throughout the country.

Grave disturbances occurred in Havana, where the populace seem to be in open rebellion.

Fighting went on throughout the day at different points.

The casualty list in the capital alone is stated to be not less than 32 killed and a hundred wounded.

Widespread anti-Government movements are reported from other parts of the island.—Reuter.

Havana, Nov. 8. Fighting is now continuing, both on land and sea.

Gunboats shelled three rebel forts in Havana, although fortunately there is much more show of fight than damage.

The casualties are now estimated at least fifty killed and 125 wounded.—Reuter.

LO WEN KAN TO RESIGN

Governor Ching Causes Trouble

Tientsin, November 8. The revelations for the conclusion of a Sino-Russian non-aggression pact was initiated before he left Nanking for Sinkian on August last, was made by Mr. Lo Wen Kan on his arrival from Vladivostok.

Mr. Lo Wen Kan, who is not visiting Peking announced he intended to resign from his post of Minister of Foreign Affairs and Justice when arrived at Shanghai for where he is leaving to-night.

He attributed his troubles in Sinkian to high handed actions from Governor Ching Shu Jen.—Reuter.

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, Nov. 9.

As overseas Chinese are returning Canton and different parts of the interior on account of world-wide depression, the Provincial Department of Interior has formulated definite measures for their relief and welfare apart from giving them temporary living quarters in the city and providing them with passage fares to go back to their native homes.

This scheme has been adopted by the recent All-Kwangtung Administrative Conference and final approval by the Kwangtung Provincial Government is certain. The plan calls for establishing factories or work houses in Canton, Swatow, Kongmoon, Hoihow, etc., to accommodate the overseas Chinese. In this way they will have housing and employment.

Secondly, the present agricultural and forestry stations are to be enlarged in scope and activities so that work may be offered to returned Chinese from abroad. Many of them are of good physique and will be able to do farming and planting labours.

A third way is to recruit the able-bodied returned emigrants for opening highways and dredging of waterways. Others can be given military training in order to qualify them to become soldiers or protective guards.

Vocational schools will also be established in ports of Kwangtung for overseas Chinese. Those who are still doing business abroad are urged to contribute funds for the building of these vocational schools, which are open for their children, and the returned Chinese.

HOME RUGBY

Middlesex beat Surrey

London, Nov. 8.

Playing at Richmond to-day, Surrey were beaten by Middlesex in the County Rugby Championship, when the visitors scored 19 points to Surrey's three. Reuter.

HONG KONG LOSE BY 14 RUNS
Last Stages Of The Malaya Interport

BOWLERS ON TOP TO THE LAST

C. S. Dunkley, run out 6 — and that meant the end of the Hongkong-Malaya interport match, and defeat for the local team by 14 runs. It was a tame ending to what at one stage, promised to be a very exciting struggle. It was somewhat disappointing for the Hongkong supporters, but after Owen Hughes left when play was resumed after lunch, it seemed all over for us, though a bright, though definitely lucky innings by Minu brought back a faint ray of hope.

Dunkley made a mistake when he called for that fatal run, but at such a stage, when he doubtless was anxious to get every possible run, it was a mistake that anybody might have made.

MINU'S MERRY INNINGS

A very strong sun was shining when Fincher and Duckitt resumed Hong Kong's innings, and from the verandah of the pavilion, it appeared as though the wicket had improved considerably.

Willis started the bowling again from the Naval Yard end. He had three slips and a third man, while Burn fielded at fine leg. Off his second ball, Duckitt opened his account with a two to square leg, but two balls later he was bowled by a beauty—a perfect length ball which took the off ball, and so three minutes after play was resumed, Hong Kong lost their first wicket with but 7 runs on the board. Duckitt scoring only two. Altogether, play had been in progress thirteen minutes.

Alec Pearce went in next, and let the last ball of the over go without playing it. Gill was then given the ball and off his third one, Teddy poked the ball up to slips but it fell short of Gibson.

Six Interport Points

(BY "L. B. W.")

The following are six points of yesterday's play:—

1. That Hongkong's batting was deplorably weak, and drastic changes must be made if we are to put up a better show against Shanghai;

2. That Redmond, Garthwaite and Hamilton failed to do themselves justice;

3. That in putting on Morgan when he did, Hamilton took a great risk;

4. That Gill is the most consistent bowler in the Malayan team;

5. That Minu's stout-hearted, though lucky knock almost won the game for Hongkong; and

6. That, going for the runs when they had plenty of time to get them cost Hongkong the match.

To make up for this, however, Fincher batted the next one to the tram line boundary to send the ten up in 17 minutes.

Pearce opened his account when he failed to get hold of one from Willis properly and the ball went to square leg. Off the first ball of his second over, Gill had had luck in failing to accept a hot c and a return from Fincher, the ball deflecting past mid on to go for a single; and on the next ball, Pearce scored a two on the leg stump, and off each one of these, the batsman took a single, Fincher reaching his 10 in 24 minutes. Gill then bowled a maiden over, and off the first ball, off Willis' next over Fincher took a single and the 23 up and give Pearce the bowling again, and this batsman took a four off the last ball, sending it to the members' stand.

At this stage, it was evident that Willis had lost his length, sending down three full tosses, the last one of which was sent to the Naval Yard end boundary by Fincher. Thirty was then signalled, and play had been in progress for 24 minutes. Hamilton then rung his first change, giving Jonkias the ball in place of Gill who had been bowling consistently though he never looked like getting a wicket. The new bowler conceded his first run away from Pearce, put him away from the square leg, for a single, and then his ten in 23 minutes. Two balls later Fincher brought off an excellent leg-glance which scored a four but he saved it in the end by giving the batsman only two.

the rails on the Naval Yard end for a six—the first sixer of the match—to send the sixty up in 25 minutes. Williams, incidentally reached his ten after this shot.

For the first time in the match, Morgan was given a trial with the ball. Hamilton putting him on in place of Spidewind, but the first one was a fairly well-pitched up ball outside the leg stump, and the result was the natural one—a four. Garthwaite was the batsman, and with seventy up, he sent another to the leg boundary to get his ten. Willis was given the ball again this being the first time he bowled from the Law Courts end.

Williams had twenty to his when Gill was put on again, and this had the effect, the Sikh bowling Garthwaite with his first ball. The outgoing batsman had batted very well and helped to put on 33 for the fourth wicket.—31-4-13.

The Arsenal Wake Up OVERRUN NEWCASTLE AFTER A TAME OPENING

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, Oct. 13.
For half an hour this game was as tame as a film lion. There were few incidents for the crowd to get enthusiastic about, and much of the play was not even worthy of a reserve side.

It is true there was a mixture of reserve players on both sides but with the exception of Pearson on the Newcastle left wing, the deputies were old "stagers". Each team led the other, and it was rare to see a movement lasting above one pass.

The halves dominated this portion of the game, and the two deputy centre-halves did their work well. Betton was perhaps the more effective, in that he gave Dunne little scope for movement, whereas Allen often evaded Stacey. Betton was awkward rather than clever, and his weight gave him a big advantage in dealing with Dunne.

He pushed the Irishman over once—rather unfairly, I thought—even before the pass to the centre-forward was made. Had he not done so Dunne must surely have got his first goal for his new club.

After that first half-hour the game livened up, and it was Newcastle who supplied the fireworks. They got the Arsenal defence rattled. Moss was out of his goal on several occasions, and once Male took his place and saved the situation. In one Newcastle raid Moss fielded the ball and twice was nearly charged over the line. The goal was charmed, for Richardson, given a clear course, and with Moss partly unbalanced from a previous clearance, shot right across the goalmouth.

Then five minutes from the interval a movement, simple in its execution, led to a goal for the Arsenal. The whole line got on the move, and it was Dunne's change of direction at the last minute, and a pass out to Birkett, which gave the outside-right, an uninterrupted and successful shot at McInroy.

The second goal which Arsenal scored ten minutes after the interval was a classic. Getting the ball unexpectedly from a throw-in, Bowden was off like a flash. Fairhurst ran across to intercept him, but was deceived by his swerve. It was only a momentary check, but it gave McInroy time to run out of goal to take up the battle. He too, was beaten, for as he dived forward Bowden shot round him into the empty net.

Even Fairhurst, usually as reliable a back as one can find in the country, made slips, none so tragic as when he screwed a shot from Jack into an open net to give Arsenal a third goal. The ball would have passed across the goalmouth but for his untimely intervention.

Minu brought off an excellent off drive to the boundary, sending the 100 up in 93 minutes, and reaching his ten with two shots!

MORE DAVID JACK RUMOURS

Rumour persists in finding managerial appointments for David Jack, Arsenal's international forward, who is said to be contemplating retirement from the field at the close of the current season.

There is little doubt that Jack will seek such a post when the proper time arrives, but he has no intention of doing anything contrary to the wishes of the Arsenal club while he is under contract with them.

Some of the rumours—especially current in the North—must, to say the least, be embarrassing to the player and the club mentioned.

A CHANGED NEWCASTLE

After seeing Newcastle United's defeat at Highbury I am prepared to hear of a big transfer or two—with hard Newcastle cash as the magnet. Perhaps a goal-scoring forward and a tip-top centre-half. Two Newcastle officials, indeed, attended the Grimsby Town v. Plymouth Argyle match, where in all probability Betton, the Grimsby centre-half, was the attraction.

Newcastle had enough chances at one period of the first-half to make the game secure, but they had no forward capable of rounding off excellent approach work. I consider they were unlucky not to have been awarded two penalties for "hands" during a mix-up when they had the Arsenal defence in a tangle, but they were equally fortunate to escape when Dunne was tripped in the Newcastle area.

A disappointing match, with Arsenal little better than they have been all season.

Mr. Chapman, the Arsenal manager, has won a great reputation for astuteness, but I fancy he is not touching great heights in his team selection at the present time.

Injuries and men selected for internationals cause him to make repeated changes in the forward line, but he ignores the chance of giving his promising young players an opportunity to gain experience.

To-day the Arsenal will have that much-changed veteran Jack at outside left, when the position could be better filled by Beasley, a man whose development is being retarded by lack of opportunity.

In the twilight of his career Jack has been moved from position to position, when he should be allowed to remain at inside right, while vacancies in the other positions are filled by reserves.

Jack may be past his best, but I consider him more useful to the side at inside right than Bowden, even though the latter has the advantage of weight.

The veteran's ability to turn the least promising situations into scoring opportunities more than compensates him for his disadvantage in the matter of age. Bowden, to say the least, is not a great goal-scorer.

trying to do so again the very next ball, he gave an easy catch to Morgan at mid-on. He collected 28 in what might be described as "a patchy innings at first but improving later."

With the score at 89 for 5, Hong Kong's skipper, Harry Owen Hughes went out to bat. With his first innings effort still fresh in the minds of the large number of people present, he was given a great ovation, but he must have felt rather anxious when he saw Hamilton put up an easy chance to Jonklass which, however, was not accepted. Two balls later, Hamilton tried to put the Sikh out of the ground, missed the ball, and getting his foot in front, was given marching orders—89-6-0.

Hong Kong's left hand bowler, A. R. Minu, joined his captain who opened his account off Willis with a single to the leg, giving Minu the bowling, and sending the ninety up. Off the second ball he received, Minu gave a chance behind the sticks which was not accepted. To celebrate his escape, Minu then put Willis out of the ground for a six to open his score. Then Owen Hughes played a maiden from Gill, and once again, Minu faced Willis, and in trying to play a steady game, he offered a simple chance to Spideewinde at second slip but again the catch went a-begging. Off the next ball, Minu brought off an excellent off drive to the boundary, sending the 100 up in 93 minutes, and reaching his ten with two shots!

MINU HIT OUT

The lunch interval proved to be the best change bowler for Malaya for no sooner was play resumed than Owen Hughes was out, l.b.w., to Jonklass in the first over. Hong Kong's total then standing at 101. Minu continued to be favoured by dame fortune, for he gave his third chance of the day which was not accepted. He then began to hit merrily and put together 21 before he was finally out—a difficult catch off Gill by Willis bringing about his downfall—111-8-21.

Excitement was at fever pitch when Dunkley went out to bat, for, with Goodwin on the injured list, it was up to him and his partner, Redmond, to get the required runs. His first shot was a four, and he was loudly applauded for this. Then he took a single to give Redmond the bowling, and this batsman glanced the ball for a two to break his "duck."

Every run counted now, and while the batsmen were evidently anxious to get them, the Malayan fielding was giving away nothing at all, and when Gill beat Dunkley with one that swung a little, a staid old gentleman in the pavilion was heard to say, with no little feeling, "Oh, boy." Dunkley, however, survived the over though he did not score. Jonklass then bowled another maiden to Redmond who did well to stop one or two real "snorters," and again Dunkley faced Gill who was keeping a very good length and off the third one, he scored a single—a pat to cover. Redmond then had the bowling and hit one very hard to long-on. He was unlucky, however, in that Gill had a man there, so instead of getting a four, he only managed one to send the 120 up in 115 minutes. He crossed over and that proved his undoing, for a rising one from Jonklass hit his glove and he was taken by Gibson at first slip—120-8-3.

Frank Goodwin, who was absent from the field when Malaya batted for the second time on account of leg trouble, went in to bat, and on him and Dunkley, rested Hong Kong's hopes.

He opened his account by getting the ball away, between the slips for a two, and two balls later, he repeated the same stroke to bring the total to 124.

Bowling once again to Dunkley, Gill changed over to send the ball down from the other side of the wicket, but his first two balls were played very carefully by the batsman who was watching them very closely. The fourth ball Dunkley potted to Jonklass at cover point and attempted a short run. Goodwin, however, could not make it on account of his leg, and sent him back but it was too late and he was run out by a mile.

It was an inauspicious finish to what otherwise proved to be an excellent struggle.

THE CIRCUS COMES TO TOWN

Tait's Manila Carnival Stages Grand Opening Carnival

The strains of Rose Marie mingled with the vibrating roar of motor cycle exhausts and the mad jubila-nce of Tait's Manila Carnival had begun, soldiers, sailors, business men, and children, coolies and com-padres all rubbed elbows in the big rush to see all that was offered and how it thrilled.

From the Hula Hula tent, where Johnny Tommy and Jerry furnished music for Meleana Roselani in their grass skirts to do the well known hula hula dance, and from the performing place to the tent of Chandu the magician everything was bustle and bustle. It was a first nighter, but it was a success. There was not one turn, much less one show that could not be considered good and every artist performing was a master at his own particular vocation.

The death defying rider on his big Indian Scout Motorcycle who rode around bowl shaped arena with thrillingly wide open, diving from the top to the bottom and back up to the top again proved himself to be a man of iron nerve and a rider fit to make any traffic policeman turn green with envy. The flea circus was something entirely novel, these little insects which politely refrained from molesting the audience, danced, ran a merry-go-round and even staged a game of football, proved highly entertaining and a steady stream of people kept going in and out of the show all evening.

MR. F. W. MUNTON BOUND OVER

Sequel To Fatal Accident In Argyle Street

"AN ERROR OF JUDGMENT"

At the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday, Mr. Wynne-Jones found Mr.
F. W. Muntion, of the China Power and Light Company guilty of negligence in the accident which involved the death of Fung Hung on the evening of October 18. In summing up the case his Worship stated, "I have analyzed it as one would a civil case and I think Mr. Muntion guilty of negligence. The amount involved is of the same order as I would accept as a civil case and is slight. It is not as though he was wantonly driving a car in a manner dangerous to the general public.
Surely he has suffered enough from the whole thing and a fine would be absurd. Compensation to the widow I feel sure I can leave safely in the hands of Mr. Muntion, and to follow the right course and to keep the conviction on record I will bind Mr.
Muntion over for twelve months in the sum of $200.

Another charge against the defendant of not having his brakes in good condition was withdrawn.

DEFENDANTS EVIDENCE

The case opened with the accused giving evidence. In reply by his solicitor, Mr. Watson, he stated that he had been driving a car since 1914 and had never before had to appear in court. He said that on the night of the tragedy he was proceeding to the Jordan Road Vehicular Ferry, and as he approached the junction of Waterloo Road and Argyle Street, Mr. Wittchell, who was sitting beside him suddenly shouted, "Look out!" At this time he was travelling between twenty and twenty-five miles per hour. He took a rapid glance to the left and saw an object some thirty feet away. He could not tell whether it was stationary or moving and the next thing he knew was that there was a man running across the path of his car, about fourteen feet away. He served the car to the right to avoid hitting him and jammed on the foot brake, but it was of no avail, and the left fender of the car hit the man and the vehicle came to a stop after knocking down the intersection gate.

Questioned by the Magistrate the witness stated that the man appeared to be carrying a screen or something that would obstruct his view.
The lighting all along the road was poor, and at the place of the accident there was no street lamp at all.

Mr. Muntion said that he was known to be a slow driver and on being asked concerning the condition of the brakes of his car said that he had never had occasion to pull the car up suddenly, but they had been renewed on April 28, 1933 and had been adjusted on August 30, the car having run some eight or nine hundred miles in the meanwhile.

The Magistrate asked if the car was a free wheeler and if the accused had driven it often and was informed that it was, and that he had only used it a few times.

Asked what portion of the road the defendant was on at the time of the tragedy he stated that he was near the middle and swerved out because if he had tried to go behind the deceased he would have had no chance of avoiding him.

MR. WITCHELL CORROBORATES

Mr. George Bernard Wittchell was than called. He gave his profession as that of an engineer and said he was a passenger in Mr. Muntion's car at the time of the accident. He corroborated the story of the accused in detail and after telling how he took the victim from under the car was dismissed without cross examination.

Mr. Watson, for the defence stated that he was sure that his client believed his brakes to be in good condition and that the evidence produced clearly showed that he had taken all reasonable precaution.

"It is all very well for people to say what they might have done after an accident but it is very difficult to decide on the spur of the moment," he said.

His worship in giving his decision said that it was obvious that the first duty of any sensible person who was driving a car unfamiliar to them was to test the brakes. He said that he had viewed the scene of the accident and thought that Mr. Muntion could have gone behind the deceased and avoided the misadventure. It was clearly a case not of wanton negligence but an error in judgment in which the man was unfortunately killed because of bad brakes.

He then announced his decision and registered a conviction as stated above.

THE SHAI TEAM ARRIVES

Interview With Donald Leach

(By "L. B. W.")

The Shanghai interlopers arrived by the R.M.S. Empress of Russia yesterday morning and to show that they really mean to avenge the defeat at the hands of E. J. R. Mitchell's merry men in May, 1932, they went straight from the boat to the Club ground where they had some net practice before the Hong Kong-Malaya match was resumed.

One of the first to have a knock was their popular captain Donald Leach who showed in very emphatic manner that he is in very good form and will probably give the Hong Kong bowlers a lot of trouble.

I had a chat with him and learned that he was rather dubious about his team's batting and when I asked if they were going to beat both Hong Kong and Malaya, he gave one of those infectious smiles of his and said
"One never can tell with cricket."

Torry Wilson, Pat Mader, Stokes, Mayhew, Booth, Tom Mader, Sam Isaacs, and in fact the whole team all had a knock either in the morning or in the afternoon, after the game between Hong Kong and Malaya was over. Leach told me that Mayhew is an excellent stumper, "even better than Coward." Of course it is well-known that Mayhew got his Blue at Oxford, and when I saw him take a knock in the afternoon, I formed the impression that he might be able to get a few runs too.

I sent down a few balls to Shanghai's captain in the morning, and, as only to be expected, I was carted all over the field.
I thought P. V. Simpson looked very pleased with himself when he bowled "Donald" with a really good ball, but when I asked if he was going to take many wickets against Hong Kong, he said that the people in Shanghai did not quite appreciate him as a bowler.

I gathered from one of their players that they had a most pleasant trip down and that they were all feeling very fit. They are looking forward to the game with Hong Kong on Saturday, and though I have not seen what they are like as a team, the general opinion is that our representatives will find Shanghai a tougher proposition than Malaya.

DUTY ON IMPORTED RICE

Dumping Danger

Nanking, Nov. 2.
The Shanghai Grain Merchants Guild is again pressing the Government to hasten the enforcement of an import duty on foreign rice.

The Guild points out that the dumping of foreign rice in this country, is bound seriously to endanger the foundation of the nation as well as aggravate the distress of the rural population. In order to remove this foreign menace and rehabilitate the economic situation in the rural districts, the Central Government should announce the enforcement of an import duty on foreign rice immediately.—Kuo Min.

Anhwei Rice For Kwangtung

Wuhu, Nov. 2.
Following the example of the Hunan Provincial Government, the Anhwei Provincial Government will also ship rice to Kwangtung in order to meet the shortage in the rice market there. A deputy has been sent to Nanking to arrange with the Ministry of Communications in regard to transportation facilities.—Kuo Min.

LONDON FINANCE NOTES

Argentine's New Issue

Special Air-Mail Service

London, Oct. 18.—Holders of blocked Argentine pesos who desire to exchange into the 4 p.c. Sterling issue are reminded that the lists for subscription will close on Oct. 18 in Buenos Aires at 3 p.m. Cable messages from Buenos Aires indicate that the response is already satisfactory, and intending applicants should take note of the further arrangement which enables the Banco de la Nacion to accept Argentine National Government bonds (with the exception of the "Patriotic" loan and Cédulas of the Banco Hipotecario Nacional) as subscription to the Sterling loan at the quotation of the day in lieu of cash up to 10 p.c. to 15 p.c. of the total amount of the new loan subscribed.

Arrangements have also been made for discounting at 5 p.c. fixed deposits to enable the depositors to subscribe. In certain cases the Government will accept subscriptions by payment in cash on application of 20 p.c. of the amount applied for and the balance in 120 days time. These applications have to be approved by the Exchange Control Committee in Buenos Aires.

While no plan has as yet been agreed upon for marketing the 4 p.c. Sterling bonds on this side, a preliminary announcement is expected this week. Though it is probable that the intimation will merely state that negotiations are proceeding, it is expected that soon some procedure will be settled to prevent large blocks of the new stock from being dumped on the market.

Improving Trade Balance

One of the most significant of the favourable features of the trade returns, and one which is of especial interest to the City, is the further narrowing of the excess of imports over exports of merchandise. For the first nine months of the year this margin amounted to £182,301,971, compared with £210,077,753 last year, and with no less than £280,701,007 in 1931, for which year the Board of Trade estimated our final deficit on all overseas payments and receipts at £104,000,000.

Of course, it would not be taken for granted that the picture is greatly altered. The "visible" deficit then becomes £182,301,971 against £223,872,206 in 1932, and the real strengthening of our external position—gold imports are best ex-

DRIFTWOOD

By The Beach Comber

Anything is apt to be found by a beachcomber from diamonds to drain-pipes.Among the arrivals on the R.M.S. Empress of Russia were several Fordas. Now they are called V-Eights, but the Beachcomber remembers them when they were just plain Tin Lizies. Rattling good cars they were in their own way.The Russian brought a number of prominent passengers to the Colony this trip, including Mrs.
Charles Gee, wife of the Manager of the National Aniline and Chemical Company; Mrs. E. and Miss C. Morrison, two members of London's social set who intend spending the winter in Ceylon; Judge P. Grant Jones, of the Supreme Court of Shanghai who is retiring; Capt. and Mrs. Shea of England who are on a world tour;
Mr. T. L. Rawsthorne of the Shanghai Municipal Council Secretariat; Col. M. H. Logan of Palmer and Turner, Limited; and Mr. C.
M. Square, Far Eastern Representative of the Cunard Line who is en route to Manila. It is not a bad advertisement for the C.P.R. having a Cunard official aboard.The Santhia belonging to the P. and O. Line proved the answer to a reporter's prayer when the docked with only two passengers on board and no mishaps during her voyage from Singapore.

THE BLUE STAR LINE

Sydney—As an earnest of their faith in the ability of their vessels to carry chilled beef successfully to the United Kingdom, the principals of the Blue Star Line have offered to take half the risk of all the beef prepared for shipment according to their instructions. The Sydney office of the line has written to the Brisbane Chamber of Commerce announcing the company's intentions and hoping that the Blue Star Line will participate in future Australian freight contracts, commencing with a service in October.
